

Dear Commissioners:

I am against the attempt of Telemarking firms to weaken the current "Do not Call Law" in the State of Indiana. With the implementation of the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law, the State of Indiana has proven that it has the interests of its citizens at heart. It has been effective and by declaring that Indiana has no authority to regulate this would be a 'step back' as far as progress.

Many of my friends have signed up for the list, and their calls have been reduced. I was receiving as many as 3 calls a night, now, I receive, at most one every couple of months. The current law does work; we have been satisfied with it and do not want it weakened by FCC order.

Instead of weakening this law in Indiana, the better idea might be to implement the basics of the Indiana Law at the federal level, and implement this as a FCC order. This would afford the same benefits that the citizens of Indiana are receiving to the rest of the country.

If you have any questions, please contact me at the address included in the cover.

Dan Bertke
Fulda, Indiana